

The Brookings Institution

1775 MASSACHUSETTS AVENUE N.W. / WASHINGTON D.C. 20036 / CABLES: BROOKINST / TELEPHONE: (202) 797-6000

Advanced Study Program

March 15, 1979

DD/A Registry
File Training 5-2

Mr. Donald Wortman
Deputy Director Administration
Central Intelligence Agency
Langley, Virginia 20205

Dear Don:

Late congratulations! Jule Sugarman tells me that Frank Carlucci won out over Scotty Campbell for your services. Good choice and I think you'll enjoy the Agency.

As you may be aware, I have been engaged with the Senate Select Committee in reviewing Agency and Community Management and especially in helping prepare the policy orientation of questions for the hearings. Yours are next Monday and we look forward to a good coverage.

I have also been working with Walter Held in the Advanced Study Program at Brookings--a much more intellectual challenge than the VP Corporate planning role I have had with AMTRAK the last several years.

In this Brookings context, I'd like to come out to the Agency in April and introduce Walter. As you may know, over the years CIA has provided an important coverage to numerous corporate businessmen engaged in Brookings programs. These programs seek to provide U.S. business realistic insights into government decision making processes and policy options. In the national defense and foreign affairs fields the quality of intelligence provided is, of course, critical and we've found considerable support to preserving and strengthening intelligence within the business community who participate at Brookings. Walter is naturally anxious that the relationship with CIA continue to be strong and that they are as constructive as possible for the Agency as well. So am I.

I'll call you in April for a convenient time.

Sincerely,

John M. Clarke
Consultant

79-1005

done
4/18/79